

This catalogue brings together the incredible artwork of Garry Hill and Gerry Judah. Hill, exploring the interrelationships between language, image, identity and the body, thoroughly exploits the capacity of video to offer complex non-linear narratives. Judah, one of the leading installation artists in the UK, challenges the boundaries between painting and sculpture, and crosses cultural, political and religious divides. In comparing the latest works of these powerful artists, this unique book offers a fascinating look at the terrifying ability of the human race to destroy itself through war and environmental destruction.
